

2013 Price Study of Community Supported Agriculture Operations in CT

By Amanda Freund, amanda.freund@uconn.edu; and Jiff Martin, UConn Extension, jiff.martin@uconn.edu

Community Supported Agriculture (CSA), an arrangement whereby customers pay growers in advance of the growing season for a guaranteed share of the season's harvest.

Background: Between August-September 2013 we investigated pricing that farm operations advertised for purchasing a CSA share. Our goal was to have a better understanding of average price/week that Connecticut farmers were charging for a standard summer vegetable share. Data on 83 CSA farm operations was gathered primarily using farm business websites and producer association listings. When a range of weeks was presented for a share (i.e. 16-18 weeks), the average number was used.

We did not attempt to compare the contents of CSA shares, nor did we analyze pricing for specialty CSA shares such as winter shares, flower shares, meat shares, etc.

See Appendix B for a more comprehensive list of all CSAs in the state.

Based on our research, we found the following: Average weekly price of 2013 Summer Vegetable CSA* = $30 Maximum price = $50 Minimum price = $14 *Average weekly price of 2012 Summer Vegetable CSA was $28 The 2012 average was calculated using data from 63 farms.

Payment Systems

Debit/Credit

There was an increase in the number of farms offering a debit /credit system to their customers. In place of presenting pre-packed boxes, more farms are offering a debit option for customers to prepay in exchange for selecting the quantity and products they desire each week.

Discounts

Select CSAs have offered a percentage discount to share cost when a 2nd share is purchased. Other farms have offered a discount for products outside the standard CSA option as an incentive for purchasing a share. Discounts were also made available in the form of work shares, requiring a predefined number of hours of work in exchange for price reduction of CSA share.

EBT/SNAP Acceptance

A form of payment that may become more popular and more easily processed by farms is EBT/SNAP.

Box shares vs. Pick and choose

Some farmers prepack their week's harvest into boxes or bags with each customer receiving a definitive amount of each crop. These box shares are then picked up or delivered on a set date each week. An alternative method to this box share is providing guidelines to customers for what quantity of each type of crop they can choose to select for their week's share at their pick up location each week.
